DETECTIVES LOOKING FOR STEWART

His Picture Sent to the Authorities in Various Cities-A Woman Wields the Broomstick-Church Anniversary To-Night.

It now seems that Thomas E. Stewart, who suddenly disappeared from Manchester last Sunday afternoon, leaving the books at the ticket office of the Southern railway station, at which he was employed, showing an unsettled balance of $230, may be brought back to this city. Mr. C. F. Salmon, who lent Stewart a handsome gold watch to wear on his trip to see a lady friend in Barton Heights, and who would very cordially welcome now a visit from the timepiece went over to Richmond yesterday and had a long talk with Sergeant Tomlinson, chief of that city's secret service. The officer assured him that he could overhaul the fugitive and secure the watch. Mr. Salmon then engaged the well-known detective's services, and by his advice had a number of photographs made from a cabinet picture of Stewart which he had.

Mr. Benjamin Walker, the ticket agent, under whom Stewart was employed, made a careful review of the books of the office yesterday and found that the deficit was $230, and it is understood that Mr. Walker will make himself responsible to the company for the amount.

The missing clerk is a man of 35, and is clean shaven, except wearing a slight moustache approaching red. He came to Manchester about two years ago, claiming to be a native of Illinois. He also claimed to be unmarried.

Stewart is said to have been seen at the Chesapeake and Ohlo depot about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and it is supposed that he took the train which leaves at that time for the West.

Old-Man Harris told her that he had never aspired to being such a character, and that she had better not say he did any more. She did, however, tell him he certainly was, and impressed her therough confidence in the assertion by pounding him on the head with the broomstick. She continued to pound him till he moaned enough and limped off to the station-house for an officer. Jane said she was trying to beat it into Old Har-ris's head that she was right.

Fortunate enough, the lights were put out in falling, and the damage of fire was sverted, but the crash upon the pews and the floor was severe, and the chandeller was broken in many pieces.

FIELD DAY AT THE COLLEGE,

Every Indication That the Exercises

During the past session there has been an ever-deepening interest in all departments of athletics at Richmond College. It is true there was no foot-ball team last year, but that was due to a combination of circumstances very unusual and wholly unlooked for, and it is quite sure that next fall a good team will be organized. Aside from this the interest organized. Aside from this the interest in field and track athletics has not been so great for a number of years, and in no department is this increased interest more manifest than in tennis. Hereto-fore very little attention has been given to tennis; those who have played have been governed by no rule, and have had nothing in view beyond the pleasure and exercise that the game afforded them? there was no purpee or desire to make this a prominent feature in college athleties. But all this has now been, or is rapidly being, changed, A tennis club has been organized with regularly-elected officers and with strict regulations governing the players, and it is the earnest desire of those who were most ctive in instituting this new movemen that the organization may so foster the interest in this game that the college may have good teams to contest for honors in any tournament that may be honors in any tou held in the future.

There were so many desiring to try for the medals and prizes on Field-Day that it was necessary to have a preliminary tournament to decide who should play of These preliminaries were begun Monday, and were finished yesterday The contests in some instances were very close and exciting, and were watcher with much interest by the lovers of this sport. FRANK R. LASSITER

VIEWS OF THIS GENTLEMAN OF VIRGINIA STATE CAMPAIGN.

THE TARIFF FIGHT IN CONGRESS

It Will Not Soon Be Settled, and th Outcome, After All, May Be No Bill-Washington Tariff

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12.-(Spe cial.)-Of the distinguished Virginians of the Democratic faith who were here yes terday, nearly all have returned to their Among those who still remain is the Hon. Frank R. Lassiter, of Petersburg, who, by the way, came here to represent Congressman Sidney Epes in the opening of the depositions in the contest which R. T. Thorp is making for Mr. Epes's seat. Mr. Lassiter is a candidate for the nomination for Attorney-General of Virginia, and he has assurances of warm support in all parts of the State. The fact that Mr. Lassiter was the first victim of the late administration, which removed him from the office of United States District Attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia be cause he was chairman of the party inthe Fourth Congressional District, has gained for him a great many friends throughout the Commonwealth. He was averse to being interviewed, but in reply to various inquiries said:

You ask me why I did not respond to the circular letter of the Richmond some days ago in regard to State of some days and in the corporate platform. There are several reasons. In the first place, I am informed that gentlemen who have heretofore aspired to the high office of Attorney-General of Virginia are not support d to take part in framing a platform for the party which does them the hono to place them in nomination.
"Again, when she stress came last year in the Bryan campaign, I stated very clearly to the Democrats of Virginia that retirement from the forefront of their battle meant betrayal. My friends that retirement from the lorefront of their battle meant betrayal. My friends know that I stand where I stood then. The Chicago platform is my platform. Through the mists of temporary defeat I see the future of the Democratic partyprojected by its founders-delayed by selfish subserviency to the advar selfish subserviency to the advancement of individuals, but stronger than ever in the hearts of the people.

"I know that we differ, and that the difference is an honest one, with some gentlemen, heretofore potent in our party. While welcoming them back to our party lines it is fair to say to the our party lines, it is fair to say to the followers of Palmer and Buckner tha that if their personal interests do not coincide with the interests of the great body of the people, the people will see to it that when those interests conflict the Commonwealth shall not suffer. The personnel of a party may change, but its principles will survive, and the young principles will survive, and the young Democracy of Virginia, mindful of their responsibility, look forward with con-fidence to the triumph of the people in look forward with cor

Mr. Lassiter feels confident that Representative Epes will retain his scat, as he was fairly and honestly elected. Thorp is represented by that expert in contested election cases, Colonel D. Brady, but it is more than likely the Colonel will make as huge a failure in this case as he did in that of Yost against Tucker, at the last session. WHEN WILL SESSION END?

When will this session of Congress end s a question now frequently asked, an the replies are the wildest kind of guessing. There is no unanimity of opinion on this subject. The time set for ad journment ranges anywhere from the middle of June to the last days of Au-gust, with the chances largely in favor of the latter date. It is wofully apparent to those who wish to get away before the dog-days that there will be a pro-tracted struggle over the tariff bill. The Senate will not hurry in the matter, and on various schedules in the tarin bill are so great that it will take a long time to adfust them, if, indeed, Congress ever succeeds in passing a bill that will please Mr. McKinley. Among Republican memthe differences between th bers of the House there is the most bitter opposition to the Senate amendments, and ail the members of the Ways and Means Committee who framed the bill are in open revolt against the Senate sugar schedule. The House gave the American schedule. The House gave the American refiners about what the existing law gives, but the change from ad valorem to specific duties made their protection fixed and prevented under-valuation, which, under the present law, Mr. Dingley says is impossible. It is openly charged that the fine Italian hand of the Sugar Trust is quite conspicuous in the Senate bill, and that it was especially framed in that Congress is likely to be in session th

It is almost safe to predict that no Virginia Republican stands a chance of getting such a lucrative foreign post as that at Rio, and if tive foreign post as that at Rio, and if Mr. Cobbs gets anything from the State Department it will be one about equal to a clerkship in compensation.

THE BLAIR APPOINTMENT. THE BLAIR APPOINTMENT.

The indignation of General Walker and other Virginia Republican leaders are over the appointment of J. C. Blair, son of ex-Attorney-General Blair, of Virginia, as Assistant District-Attorney, has been so well aired at the Department of Justice and the White House that the official head of Mr. Blair is likely to fall into the basker before it is well settled on his shoulders. The appointment was made by Attorney-General McKenna, at the carnest solicitation of Judge Goff, who said it would be perfectly agreeable to General Walker. On the contrary, however, the appointment was absolutely repugnant to General Walker, as, Blaff comes from Wytheville, where resides Mr. J. T. Gleaves, whom General Walker probably wants to be District Attorney for the Western District.

The Attorney-General admitted to General Walker that he had made a mistake, but said he did not know how it could be rectified, but the President went further, and said it should not stand. Mr. McKinley asked: "How can I get rid of Mr. Blair?" and General Walker was unable to salve the problem. The President Western District. unable to solve the problem. The Presilent then said, "Wait until the appe ment of District-Attorney is made, and then I will dispose of Mr. B'air." Sheriff Hughes's Narrow Escape

Sheriff Hughes's Narrow Escape.

Mr. John T. Hughes, Richmond's popular and efficient Sheriff, had a narrow escape from probably fatal injuries on Wednesday evening. He was driving down Broad street about 8 o'clock, and when near Third a heavy one-horse wagon, driven by a negro, came around the corner of Third and Broad streets at a rapid pace, and before Mr. Hughes could pull his team out of the way the two vehicles collided. In the accident the Sheriff's buggy was overturned, and he was thrown between the seat and the dashboard, a most perilous place. Sheriff Hughes held the reins tightly, and although his horse started to run, he was prevented from doing so until assistance came to the Sheriff. Every witness of the accident expected to find Mr. Hughes seriously injured, but beyond a few scratches and the smearing of his clothes with mud, he suffered no other injuries. The horse and buggy also escaped serious damage.

Outings for Sunday-School Children.

The Richmond Traction Company has extended to all of the Sunday schools of the city an invitation to enjoy an outing upon its cars any day each school may select during the summer. The officials of the company offer to carry the schools to any of the parks on their lines and bring them back in the evening. They promise to provide an ample number of cars, and to take special pains to give the officers, teachers, and scholars an enjoyable outing. This liberal offer will undoubtedly be accepted by many of the schools.

DERBY. KENTUCKY

ORNAMENT LOWERS HIS COLORS TO A GAMER ANIMAL.

TYPHOON II. LANDS THE PRIZE.

He Wins With an Ease That Clearly Proves His Superlority-Track

About Three Seconds Slow-Other

LOUISVILLE, KY., May 12.-The twenty-third Kentucky Derby has passed into history, and along with it the winter and spring calculation of the talent. Ornament, the much-touted son of imported Order, that game chestnut colt, whose 2-year-old performances stamped him, and rightly, as the king of the western turf, lowered his colors this afternoon before a gamer and better animal. Without being touched, and only a little shaking up near the wire, Typhoon II, landed the coveted prize. Showing the way the entire distance of one mile and a quarter, the chestnut colt was never in distress at any part of the journey.

The finish was not of the sensational kind that stirs the spectators and furnishes excitement to those who have wagers on the outcome, for Typhoon's victory, well and gamely contended for, was won with an ease that clearly proved his superlority over the five other colts contesting for the honor.

It was a good betting race, but Ty-phoon, though a second choice, carried but little of the public's money. When they went to the post, the ruling prices were: Ornament, 8 to 5; Typhoon, 11 to 5; Dr. Catlett. 41-2; Dr. Shepard, 9; Ben.

Brown, 12, and Goshen, 16.

After last night's heavy rair it was thought that the going would be unusually bad, and that the track would be fully five seconds slow. But nature and manhood accomplished much. Along the rail it was still sticky, and in spots there were decided evidences of the recent downpour, but 15 feet from the rail it was better, in fact, but a little slow. All things considered, the track was perhaps three seconds off.

'ALEXANDRIA, VA., May 12.-(Spe-clal.)-Considerable excitement was caused here to-day by a street, encounter between Mr. L. Kirby, a well-known electrician, and Mr. D. M. Steers, the local manager of the Home Telephone Commanager of the Home releasance company. Mr. Kirby was assisted in the affray by his wife, who was armed with a horsewhip. The affair occurred at the corner of two of the principal thoroughfares, and attracted a large crowd. It is said that the irate husband and wife had been looking for Mr. Steers during the earlier part of the morning, and fall-ing to find him at his office, met him on King street as they were returning up-town. Mrs. Kirby then proceeded to ply vigorously her whip about Steer's head and shoulders, while her husband endeavored to otherwise chastise him. By-standers interposed, but not before Steers succeeded in knocking Kirby down with a well-directed blow in the face. All the parties were arrested, but were subse-quently released under bond to appear at the Police Court in the morning at 8 o'clock. Mr. Kirby states that the at-tack upon Steers is the outcome of cer-vity decognitory remarks which Steers had deavored to otherwise chastise him. Hytain derogatory remarks which Steers had made reflecting upon Mrs. Kirby, and that neither he nor his wife regretted the course that they had taken.

THE CHAPMAN CASE PROPOSED SENATE RESOLUTION ON

THE SUBJECT.

A PRE - REQUISITE TO PARDON

The Broker to Purge Himself of Contumney-The Resolution Goes Over, as Does Also the Morgan

Cuban Resolution.

WASHINGTON, May 12.-In the Senate to-day the sugar investigation of 1894 was recalled by the introduction of a resolution by Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, eciting the circumstances of the investigation, the refusal of Elverton R. Chapman to testify, his conviction in the courts as a contumacious witness, and the present efforts toward his parlon. The resolution proposes that Chapman be brought to the bar of the Senate to purge himself of contumacy as a prerequisite to pardon.

Mr. Allen sought to secure immediate action on the resolution, but it went over, on objections from Mr. Gallinger, of New Hampshire, and Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts. The latter criticised the resolution as giving away the authority of the Senate, and said he would propose an amendment with a view to having Chapman punished, unless he purged himself of contempt, without reference to the question of pardon. The consideration of the resolution will be in order to-morrow.

Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, made a All Morgan, of Alabama, made a statement relative to his resolution on Cuba. He said the Committee on Foreign Relations, at a meeting to-day, had considered the question of referring the resolution to the committee, and had not reached an agreement. The com-mittee desired, however, that the resolution go over until noon to-morrow, with view to having a statement of facts laid before the Senate at that time. On Mr. Morgan's request the resolution went over until to-morrow.

AGAINST CONVICT-MADE GOODS. Proposed Tariff Amendment to This

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12.-Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, to-day presented an amendment which he proposes to offer to the tariff bill against goods which are the product of convict labor. The amendment is as follows:

"Whenever complaint is made to the Secretary of the Treasury that any m factured goods imported into this country are the product of prison or convict labor it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to formulate the necessary rules and regulations to promint the further importation of such goods, except upon the sworn statement of the for-manufacturer or his agent, made fore a consul of the United States that goods are not being produced by the labor of prisoners or convicta."

Most Novelties She Craved Were Found in Men's Department.

She was rather a petite little thing and quite handsomely dressed, so two or three clerks undertook to wait on her at once. "I want to gain a little information in regard to styles for the coming summer," she explained.

"Certainly," replied the clerk who had succeeded in getting to her first. "I can show you the latest fashion-plates or give you a brief description of some of the principal novettles, so that you may set some sort of an idea of what you way set some sort of an idea of what you would like to look at."

"That would suit me exactly," she returned, smiling sweetly.

"Well," he explained, determined to de himself proud, "the fashionable skirt this summer will be"

"The what!" she exclaimed in astonishment.

"The the really fashionable skirt." he ment.

"The-the-really fashionable skirt," he faltered, wondering what could be the trouble. "The skirt!" she cried, "What did you think I asked for?"

"Something-er-er-for summer wear," he answered, hesitatingly.
"Of course," she said, "I didn't ask anything about winter garments, did 17

"When, then, what are you talking bout skirts for? Do I look like an old fogy?" Certainly not. I wouldn't intimate "Certainly not, I wouldn't intimate such a thing for a minute."
"Then trot out the fashiona that I asked for. What's the latest thing is bloomers and bathing suits? Are they to be worn scant or full? Is a jockey cap to be the correct thing for road wear of must I get a yachting cap and put a hairpin in it so that I can tell it from my brother's? Should I wear a blouse waist or may I put on a man's negligee shirt with a short sack coat over it?"
"Really, Miss, I-er-er-I-you see, the is the ladles' dress-goods department, and I-er-"
"Of course it is." she interrupted. "It's ladles' dress goods that I want. If you don't think that's what I asked for you must have kept your eyes shut all last summer."
"Well, the fact is." he tried to explain

"Well, the fact is," he tried to explain
"that while we have some of the things you want in this department, you will have to go to the men's department for most of them."
"The men's department!" she exclaimed.
"What's the difference?"
"Why, frankly," he replied, in desperation, "there is mighty little."
Then she went away threatening to re-tion, "there is mighty little."

Then she went away threatening to report him for not showing proper respect for a lady.
